

Decree Of Canonical Parish Merger
Shrine of the Little Flower Parish
St. Matthew Parish
Effective December 1, 2024

Beginning in September of 2022, I initiated an extensive process of listening, visioning and discernment regarding the future of this parish and others in the City of Baltimore and the surrounding areas. The general public, parish leadership and individual parishioners were invited to attend a series of public meetings to advise me on the best future for these parishes. More than 6,000 persons participated in the two-year process. An initial proposal for reconfiguration that was prepared by 250 lay and clergy leaders was made public in March of 2024. Two public meetings were held after this announcement to receive feedback from individual parishes and individual parishioners regarding the initial proposal. All have also been given the opportunity to provide their views to me by mail, email or individually throughout the process.

In regard to the proposed merger of Shrine of the Little Flower parish and St. Matthew parish, the members of Shrine of the Little Flower parish participated in a survey, a prayerful discussion, visioning sessions and hosted local parish listening sessions in order to provide information about their vision of the future of the parish. Meetings were also held with parish leadership from both parishes before a final decision was made. After additional changes were made based on the feedback received from that process, the final proposal was made public on May 22, 2024.

The Presbyteral Council and Archdiocesan Finance Council (BOFA) were asked for feedback on both the initial proposal in April 2024 and the final proposal in May 2024 for the above-referenced merger prior to their final canonical review of the proposed plan. In accordance with canons 50, 120 §1, 121 and the requirements of canon 515 §2, the proposal to canonically merge Shrine of the Little Flower parish into St. Matthew parish was formally presented to the Presbyteral Council on September 3, 2024 for the required canonical consultation. After reviewing and discussing the materials related to the canonical merger, the members gave their unanimous support to the proposal.

The following facts regarding the Shrine of the Little Flower parish constitute reasons, in summary, for the canonical merger of Shrine of the Little Flower parish into St. Matthew parish (canon 51):

- The number of Catholic households in the parish boundaries has declined from 750 in 2004 to 157 in 2023;
- Only 44 of these Catholic households are registered with Shrine of the Little Flower parish;
- The number of parishioners attending Mass at Shrine of the Little Flower parish has declined from 571 in 2004 to 115 in 2023;
- 54% of Mass attendees (62 persons) are over the age of 60;
- Shrine of the Little Flower parish has shared a priest and expenses with St. Francis of Assisi parish since 2021;
- There have been an average of 9 per year for the past 10 years;
- The parish has only $159,294 in unrestricted assets available to pay its increasing costs and debt;
- The parish has operated at a deficit for 17 of the last 20 years;
- The parish offertory has declined 33% over the last 20 years;
- The parish would need over 3.5 times its current offertory to meet the cost of buildings operations and annual recommended facilities reserve with no funds available for ministry;
- There are 6 other parishes within 2 miles of Shrine of the Little Flower parish;
- Shrine of the Little Flower parish is 3.6 miles (5.7 kilometers) from St. Matthew parish; and
- St. Matthew parish is able to welcome the parishioners and ministries of Shrine of the Little Flower parish.

From these facts considered as whole, it is my opinion that left to itself, Shrine of the Little Flower parish will only continue to decline with the resultant diminishing of pastoral ministry and sacramental life. Merging with St. Matthew parish will allow the greatest opportunity to continue and even strengthen the ministries which are presently offered for the parishioners of the Shrine of the Little Flower parish.

Having heard all who have an interest in this matter, including the opinion of the members of the Presbyteral Council who were properly convened according to law and voted on this matter in my presence, I believe the reasons listed above in this decree establish a just cause for the canonical merger of the Shrine of the Little Flower parish into St. Matthew parish. As a result, I do hereby decree that Shrine of the Little Flower parish is to be canonically merged into St. Matthew parish, Baltimore, effective, December 1, 2024.

The boundaries of St. Matthew parish shall reflect the current outside boundaries of the two parishes as of the date of the canonical merger.

Until the issuance of a subsequent decree, the temporal goods, assets, and liabilities under civil law of the civilly incorporated the Shrine of the Little Flower parish and the civilly incorporated St. Matthew parish, all under the canonical administration of the pastor of St. Matthew parish, shall nonetheless remain separate and distinct.

Furthermore, I order the sequestration pro tempore of the temporal goods and assets of each civil corporation for the exclusive use of meeting the debts and liabilities of their respective civil corporations (cf. can. 1496 §1).

While Shrine of the Little Flower Church remains a sacred edifice to which the faithful have the right of entry under canon 1214, it now becomes a subsidiary church of St. Matthew parish, with permission to reserve the Blessed Sacrament there (cf. can. 934 §1, 2^o) and with the pastor being responsible for the reserved Eucharist (cf. can. 934 §2). St. Matthew Church will remain the parish church for the canonically merged parishes.

The parish records (financial, etc.) of Shrine of the Little Flower parish will become the property and responsibility of St. Matthew parish on December 1, 2024.
